V. 1 - And so metimes the voice falls as we say the verb in 香港電台廣播英文課程

馬加烈李姑娘粵語解釋

(每选星期一、三、六晚六時中五六時四十五分) (四百五十千週波)

QUESTION PHRASES (PART TWO) (第二段) Voice 2 --- Woman 學音 2 — 女子

摩雷 1 —— 男子; THE BBC brings you ENGLISH BY RADIO. Question Phrases. That's what we were talking about ino ur last lesson. There were three main points. First, the verb in the question phrase is always one of the twenty—four special. verbs. For example:--

V. 1 Secondly, the subject in the question phrase is nearly always a personal pronoun. This is used instead of the noun, or the demondtrative pronoun, in the main sentence. For example:-V. 2 isn't it? wasn't he? weren'tthey? hasn't

V. 2 isn't it? wasn't he? weren't they? hasn't she? can you? could I? must we?

she? can you? could I? must we? V. 1 Thirdly, an affirmative statement is followed by a auestion phrase which is negative:-V. 2 This is a book, isn't it?

V: 1 A negative statement is followed by a simple question phrase whichis not negative:-V. 2 This book isn't yours, is it?

週是一本街,不是嗎?

選本醫不是你的, 是嗎? V. 1 And now we come to the fourth point, the question of intonation. Sometimes the voice rises as we say the 'verb in the question phrase, like this:-V. 2' Your name's Robinson, isn't it? isn't it? 你的名字是羅便臣, 不是嗎? 不是嗎?

the question phrase, like this:-V. 2 . It's time for dinner, isn't it? isn't it?

還是吃洗瓷的時候了, 不是嗎? 不是嗎? V. 1 That's an important difference. Listen to some more examples, all with a rising tone of voice on the verb in the question phrase:-

V. 2 To-day's Monday, isn't it? 今日是星期一, 不是嗎?

V. I You won't be here to-morrow, will you? 你明天不會到這褒來, 你會嗎?

V. 2 They couldn't help us, could they? 他們不能帮助我們, 他們能够嗎?。 V. 1 She ought to know the answer, oughtn't she?

V. 2 We needn't start yet, need we? 我們尚朱須啓程, 我們需要嗎?

V. 1 In all these examples, there was a rising tone on the ve in the question phrase. The speaker thinks he knows the answer. But he asks for confirmation. He says 'Please me whether I'm right in my statement. He wants confirmation Or, if his statement is not correct, he wants correction That the meaming of the rising tone on the verb in the question phrase. It is a request for confirmation or correction. Now listen to some more examples, all with a falling tone on the verb in the question phrase:-V. 2 Let me see, it's Monday to day, isn't it?

霞我看看,今日是星期一,不是嗎? V. 1 We're having frightful weather, aren't we? 我們遇到可怕的天氣, 我們可不是嗎?

V. 2 This book doesn't look new, does it? 這本書看來不是新的, 是嗎? V. 1 We must make a start soon, mustn't we? 我們必要早客程, 我們必需要嗎? V. 2 He hasn't gone to France, has he?

他已到法國去, 他去了嗎? V. 1 In all those examples, there was a falling tone on the ve in the question phrase. And they were not real questions not questions to which an answer was needed or expected The speaker was not asking for confirmation or correction The speaker felt sure of his statement and did not net confirmation or correction. Such statements are generally made for purely conversational purposes, as when we say V. 2 It's a nice day today, isn't it? 今天天氣很好, ,可不是嗎?

V. 1 That's not a question; it's an example of some thing. for the sake of conversation. So note the difference between the rising tone and the falling tone on the verb in the question phrase.

V. 2 There are four points to remember, aren't there? V. 1 Yes, the first point is that the verb in the question phrase must be one of the twenty-four special verbs. V. 2 Secondly, the subject of the question phrase is nearly always a personal pronoun, isn't it? V. 1 Thirdly, negative follows affirmative and affirmative follows V. 2 And lastly, remember the difference between a rising and a falling tone on the verb in the question phrase.
